DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35
 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.
- 2. Claims1-5, 7,9-14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Brusky et al., (U.S. Patent No. 5,903,259).

As per claim 1, Brusky teaches a wireless computer peripheral input device (In Fig.2 element 38 and In Col.5 lines 1-5and In abstract) for use with a data processing (In fig.2 element 26 and In col.4 lines 47-67), the input device comprising:

a wireless transmitter for transmitting signals (In Col.5 lines 4-5);

a selector for selecting for selecting a one of a plurality of data processing systems (In Col.8 lines 5-9) with which to operate wherein invoking the selector causes a signal (In Col.7 lines 47-57) to be transmitted from the wireless transmitter.

As per claims 2,3,11,12 Brusky teaches the input device are a keyboard and a computer mouse (In Col.4 lines 9-15).

Art Unit: 2673

As per claim 4, Brusky teaches the wireless transmitter is an infra-red transmitter (In Col.5 lines 49-55).

As per claim 5, the input device wherein the wireless transmitter is a radio frequency transmitter (In Col.7 lines 65-67 to Col.8 lines1-3).

As per claim 7, Brusky teaches a computer system (In fig.3 element 72 and In Col.7 lines 10-15):

a plurality of data processing system (In Col.8 lines 5-8);

a peripheral input device (In col.7 lines 29-31); wherein the peripheral comprises a computer selector for selecting one of the plurality of data processing system (In Col.4 lines 65-66 and In fig. 2 element 36) for interaction with the peripheral input device;

the peripheral input device a wireless transmitter for providing communication with any of the plurality of data processing systems (element 46 In fig.2 and In col.5 lines 4-5);

each of the plurality of data processing systems having a wireless receiver for receiving wireless communication from the input device (In Col. 7 lines 58-67 to Col.8 lines 1-8).

As per claims 9,10 Brusky teaches the wireless transmitter is an infrared transmitter ((In Col.5 lines 49-55 and In Col.6 lines 11-17) wherein selection of one of the plurality of data processing systems is dependent upon the orientation of the peripheral input device (In Col.7 lines 16-28).

Art Unit: 2673

As per claim 13, Brusky teaches a method for accessing a plurality of data processing systems using a wireless input device (In Col.8 lines 5-9) wherein receiving a selection of particular data processing system of the plurality of data processing systems and transmitting a signal from the wireless input device to only activate the particular data processing system; and sending data from the wireless input device to the particular data processing system after transmitting the signal to the particular system (In col.7 lines 29-34). As per claim 14, Brusky teaches the signal is a code recognized by the particular data processing system (In Col.5 lines 28-60).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
  - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 4. Claims 6,8,15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brusky et al., (U.S. Patent No. 5,903,259) in view of Sidlauskas et al., (U.S. Patent No. 6,133,833).
  - As per claims 6,8,15 Brusky teaches a wireless receiver and a transmitter to control a plurality of computer device using radio frequency (In Col.7 lines 65-67 to Col.8 lines 1-9).

Art Unit: 2673

Brusky does not specifically teach the selector allows selection of one of plurality of radio frequencies of each of the plurality of data processing system is different from each other which corresponding to one of the received radio frequency. Sidlauskas teaches selection of one of plurality of radio frequencies of each of the plurality of data processing system is different from each other which corresponding to one of the received radio frequency (In abstract and In Col.2 lines 49-60 and In col.3 lines 26-33 and In Col.4 lines 6-17 and In Col.6 lines 45-65).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time of the invention was made to allow teaching of Sidlauskas's plurality of different radio frequency to control different system into the system of Brusky's because it would have controlled different type plurality of devices without adding wires to the system and spaces in a working environment.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 01/18/2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant's argument prior art fails to teach a wireless keyboard controlling a plurality of computers, Examiner would like to point out (in Col.8 lines 5-8) that wireless keyboard controlling plurality of device (electronics device as a plurality of computers), Further Applicant's argument that mouse as the wireless input device not taught by Brusky, Examiner would like to point out (In Col.4 lines 12-13) that a input device could use such as a mouse device and further In Application drawings nowhere its shows a mouse as a input device, all it illustrates as a keyboard controlling plurality of devices.
